לזכר עולם

Four times a year, on Yom Kippur, Shemini Atzeret, Passover, and Shavuot, we gather to remember the lives of our loved ones who are no longer with us. The pages of this booklet contain a brief service that allows for personal reflection and prayer. Dearly departed family members and friends are recalled in our hearts and in our memories.

The first Yizkor book was published after the First Crusade of 1096. It was a way for the Jewish community to publicize and memorialize those who had died by the sword of the Crusading armies. Over the course of time, Jews have continued this tradition of recording the names of loved ones in books so that communities would recall those who had entered the realm of memory. The booklet you hold in your hand is part of this tradition. Each name represents a holy spark of the Divine.

Dedication of Yahrzeit Plaques

At this Yizkor memorial hour, we recall the legacy of loved ones who have been taken from us.

Their memories are enshrined in this Congregation and forever in our hearts.

May the source of all comfort send consolation and healing to those who mourn them. May their memories always endure with us as a lasting benediction, and let us say: Amen.

לזכר עולם

יְי, מָה אָדָם וַתִּדְעָהוּ, בֶן-אָנוּשׁ וַתַּחֲשֹׁבֵהוּ.
אָדָם לְהִבָּל דָּמָה, יָמָיו כְּצֵל עוֹבֵר.

Adonai, what are human beings that You take account of them, mortals that You care for them?
Humans are as a breath, their days like a passing shadow.

We Are Time's Subjects

This is the hour of memory –
and this is our house of comfort.
Wounded by loss, we retreat from life;
our synagogue gathers us in.
Into this place we bring stories and prayers,
unanswered questions,
tears that need to be shed.
Lives recollected and carried within us – moments of courage and laughter and pain –
this day embraces them all;
this place embraces us all.
Now the heart opens in sorrow,
for we are time's subjects,
and all that we love we must lose.
So let us hold fast to the love that remains,
and cherish the light of the sun.
Today all of us walk the mourner's path;
together may we find strength.

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE (Henry IV, Part II)

בבֹּקֶר יִצִּיץ וְחָלָף, לְעֶרֶב יִמּוּלֵל וְיָבֵשׁ.

In the morning they flourish anew,
in the evening they shrivel and die.
Teach us to count each day,
that we may acquire a heart of wisdom.

YESH KOKHAVIM: THERE ARE STARS

There are stars whose light reaches the earth only after they themselves have disintegrated and are no more.

And there are people whose scintillating memory lights the world after they have passed from it.

These lights – which shine in the darkest night – are those which illumine for us the path.

HANNAH SENESH

One generation passes, another comes,
but the earth remains the same forever.

*No person has authority over the wind to halt
the wind and no one has authority over the day of death.*

A person does not know what will be,
for who might tell you what will happen.

Everything has a time and place under heaven.

We Recall

Some of us recall parents who gave us life, who cared for us and nurtured us and who taught us to take our first steps on our own.

Some of us remember a wife, husband, or partner — our friend and lover — with whom we shared so much of our lives, our failures, and achievements, joys and sorrows, intimate secrets.

Some of us recall brothers and sisters, who matured together with us, sometimes competing with us, and sometimes encouraging us on, bound to us by a life-long relationship.

Some of us remember children, entrusted to us too briefly, to whom we gave our loving care and from whom we received a trust that enriched our lives. Their memory is always with us.

Many of us recall relatives who knew us, teachers who affected us, and beloved friends who walked beside us in life, guiding us, listening to us, supporting us.

Our lives are shaped by those who were alongside us as we walked on our path.

May our inheritance impel us to strive to live lives of holiness and service. May memories of love inspire us to love; may painful memories impel us to mitigate the pain others experience. And may we be granted the strength to affirm life's meaning, even in the face of death.

On Pesah

Tam is who you were.
Simple and whole.
You asked, "What is this?"
I needed to know,
but was too sophisticated to ask.
Now, belatedly, I wonder,
what is this ... seder?
what is this ... life?
what is this ... death?
what is this ... God?

Wise is who you were.
You wanted to know every little thing there is to know to serve God. Details, you wanted details.
We thought your mind was narrow
when it was simply in love.
Now I miss your intense yearning
for your beloved,
content to be restrained by "no"
or liberated by "yes."

Wicked is who you were.
You just couldn't stop pushing, rejecting.
Did I owe you patience or impatience?
I still don't know.
Your rage chased away my love
more than once.
You did provoke something in me,
though.
I wish I had known how to love
you and I wish you had known how to love me.

Unable to ask is who you were.
It was up to me to open up for you the questions of life I wished you could ask.
Not only to lighten my burden though I can't deny that it was true, but so you could say your beauty to us, to your world.
You were my mystery.
To find you
I had to study hard
at the school of gentleness.

In truth, it is not for me to judge who you were and anyway
I cannot begin to know.

You may have been
a whole new number,
the fifth
or sixth
or seventh child,
a new creation,
inviting the sea to split upon God's command not into upper and lower but one side facing the other.
Then we,
whole worlds,
could stumble through,
toward our redemptions
great and simple.

On Shavuot

Spring roses bloom,
fragrant with heady Torah,
layers of sevens fluttering
as we enter
our huppah
with God.
My teachers, you escort me.

You taught me
first words,
first songs,
first steps;
You taught me
the slow craft
of doing work well.

You taught me the patience
to sketch my thoughts;
You taught me rules
which I broke and then mended.

You taught me impatience
with what is unjust.
You taught me to listen for truth
and to seek it.

You taught me life lessons
before they could hurt me;
You comforted me when they did;
You were my best listener.

You taught me to hurt
to do a mitzvah;
that inconvenience
in service of others
is blessed.

You escort me still,
as you always did.

You taught me that books
catch living voices.
You smiled inwardly
as I learned
what has long been known.

You presence taught me
to breathe with another;
to notice their pain
and to be,
just be near.

לזכר עולם

On this splendid day,
of hearing sights, seeing noise,
of great laws,
noble truths.

I think you
for moments of learning,
still open
and opening.

This rose
of learning
I accept as your student.
I will plant and tend it
in your name.
It will release
to the air
its rare essence stirred by the passing of its great gardeners.

On Shemini Atzeret

A Man Doesn't Have Time

A man doesn't have time in his life
to have time for everything.
He doesn't have seasons enough to have a season for every purpose. Ecclesiastes was wrong about that.

A man needs to love and to hate at the same moment,
to laugh and cry with the same eyes,
with the same hands to throw stones and to gather them,
to make love in war and war in love.

And to hate and forgive and remember and forget,
to arrange and confuse, to eat and to digest
what history
takes years and years to do.

A man doesn't have time.
When he loses he seeks, when he finds
he forgets, when he forgets he loves, when he loves he begins to forget.

And his soul is seasoned, his soul
is very professional.
Only his body remains forever
an amateur. It tries and misses, gets muddled, doesn't learn a thing,
drunk and blind in its pleasures
and in its pains.

לזכר עולם

He will die as figs in autumn, shriveled and full of himself and sweet,
the leaves growing dry on the ground,
the bare branches already pointing to the place where there's time for everything.

— YEHUDA AMICHAI (translated by Chana Bloch)

לזכר עולם

My Father Commanded Me Not to Die

But my father, before he died, commanded me not to die.
Never to stop breathing.

Only to seem silent, while my soul secretly continues to be suspended in the ether.

So I go on living. I will not stop living. Neither non-existence nor fear, nor closely-knit woven gloom, its cloth cloaking the sun, will make me tremble,
not the emptiness with which my loved ones leave me,
silently taken one by one.

I continue to breathe and with my breath, I give life to birds, wild beasts, shreds of sky, clumps of clay.

In Everything

In everything there is at least an eighth part that is death. Its weight is not great.
With that secret and carefree grace
we carry it everywhere we go.
On lovely awakenings, on journeys,
in lovers' words, in our distraction forgotten at the edges of our affairs it is always with us. Weighing hardly anything at all.

LEA GOLDBERG (translated by Rachel Tzvia Back)

Gift

You teach your children what you've been taught about the generosity of limitations,
the shortness of life, but also the future
you could only find when you found life's limits, not the death you lived
but death itself, the real-you death, divvyng up your assets –
your heart, your savvy, your love of interpretation, and interpretation of love as whatever fulfills your wish to be and to give everything that gives itself to you, that gave your children to you and you to them
when the lines between you were cut or frozen and pain guaranteed and growing and love came roaring back.

A Personal Meditation

Eternal God, Master of mercy, give me the gift of remembering.

May my memories of the dead be tender and true, undiminished by time, not falsified by sentimentality. Let me recall them, and love them, as they were.

Give me the gift of tears. Let me express my sense of loss, my sorrow, my pain, as well as my gratitude and my love.

Give me the gift of prayer. May I confront You with an open heart, with trusting faith, unembarrassed and unashamed. Give me the gift of hope.

May I always believe in the beauty of life, the power of goodness, the right to joy.

May I surrender my being, and the soul of the dead, to Your eternal compassion.

בְּשֵׁם יְיָ אֱלֹהֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל,

וּמִלְּפָנַי אֱוִרִיאֵל, וּמֵאַחֲרַי רְפָאֵל, וְעַל רֹאשִׁי, וְעַל רַגְלָי שְׁכִינַת אֵל.

*Beshem Hashem Elohei Yisra'el,
Mimini Mikha'el, umismoli Gavri'el,
Umilfanai Uri'el, ume'ahorai Refa'el, Ve'al roshi, ve'al roshi Shekhinat-El.*

In the name of the Lord, the God of Israel,
May the angel Michael be at my right hand,
the angel Gabriel at my left,
In front of me, the angel Uriel, and behind me, the angel Raphael,
And above my head the Shekhinah, God's presence.

When we recite Yizkor we make mention of each person individually. We do not lump our loved ones together and say “May God remember the souls of my parents and my siblings and all my relatives.” Instead, we say the Yizkor prayer over and over again – once for a mother with her name and then once again for a father with his name and then once again for a brother with his name and so on. Each one gets an individual Yizkor. Why? Because each one was an individual, each one was a person, and each one was special in his/her own way. Every human being deserves to be treated as such in life and in death.

Yizkor Tradition: צְדָקָה (TZEDAKAH)

The Yizkor service was historically called Seder Matnat Yad, the service of expressing generosity on behalf of those who have died. That name comes from the closing line of the Torah reading for the final day of the pilgrimage festivals (when Yizkor is recited): "Every person giving a gift according to the blessing they have received from Adonai" (Deuteronomy 16:17). Offering charitable gifts and performing acts of justice, love, and care in memory of those who have died provide us with ways of honoring their memory and continuing their influence for good.

Additional Meditations for Yizkor

On Miscarriage Or Stillbirth

May the name for the Source of Creation be magnified and my pain grow less and less. May the will of the Holy One work through me day by day, hour by hour so that this raw grief wears thin and though despair has me, may I know that the beauty of the world remains even seen through tears. May I find my way to a place of peace over this lost child and may this be my promise:

I will not forget you,
little one I never met,
and I ask that the One who makes peace in the high places (as well as the hidden ones inside)
make peace for you,
give you comfort and angelic shelter.
This blessing I ask for myself
and the one whose life was cut so short.

A Yizkor Meditation in Memory of a Parent Who Was Hurtful

Dear God,

You know my heart. Indeed, You know me better than I know myself, so I turn to You before I rise for Kaddish.

My emotions swirl as I say this prayer. The parent I remember was not kind to me. His/Her death left me with a legacy of unhealed wounds, of anger and of dismay that a parent could hurt a child as I was hurt.

I do not want to pretend to love, or to grieve that I do not feel, but I do want to do what is right as a Jew and as a child.

Help me, O God, to subdue my bitter emotions that do me no good, and to find that place in myself where happier memories may lie hidden, and where grief for all that could have been, all that should have been, may be calmed by forgiveness, or at least soothed by the passage of time.

I pray that You, who raise up slaves to freedom, will liberate me from the oppression of my hurt and anger, and You will lead me from this desert to Your holy place.

וְיִזְכְּרוּ לָנוּ עֲקִידָתָם וְתַעֲמוֹד לָנוּ וּלְכָל יִשְׂרָאֵל זְכוּתָם.

אֶרֶץ אֵל-תַּכְסִּי דָמָם וְאֵל-יְהִי מָקוֹם לְזַעֲקָתָם.

God full of mercy, who dwells on high, establish proper rest under the wings of the Divine Presence, on the levels of the holy and pure ones who shine like the splendor of the firmament, for the souls of the Kedoshim of Pittsburgh, murdered at kiddush Hashem, because we pray for the elevation of their souls.

And remember for us their sacrifice and let their merit stand for us and for all of Israel.

Let the earth not cover their blood and let there not be a place sufficient for their cries.

Master of mercy, cover them in the cover of Your wings forever and may their souls be bound up in the bonds of life. God is their inheritance, may their rest be in Gan Eden, and let them rest in peace upon their places of repose, and let them stand for their fate in the end of days.

And let us say Amen.

THE YAHRZEIT

(Anniversary of a Death)

The observance of the yahrzeit is one of the honors a Jew can pay to departed parents and loved ones. It is a mitzvah that our heart, mind and conscience bids us to fulfill with love and respect.

1. Yahrzeit is observed on the anniversary of the day of death according to the Hebrew calendar. The yahrzeit begins at sundown, just as Shabbat and all Jewish holidays begin.
2. The mourner's kaddish is recited at services during the day of yahrzeit. The kaddish elevates the soul every year to a higher paradise and assures participation in the congregation of the Jewish people.
3. A bimah honor is extended at our congregation on the Shabbat prior to the yahrzeit.
4. A memorial candle is lit at home on sundown as the yahrzeit begins.
5. It is traditional to visit the grave on the anniversary of death or on a day prior to it. Similarly, such a visit should be made in the month of Elul (the month before Rosh Hashanah).
6. Tzedakah should be given as an expression of love in memory of the departed. By doing so, the lives and legacies of our loved ones are a continuous source of blessing.
7. The yizkor service is recited four times a year: Yom Kippur, Shemini Atzeret, Passover and Shavuot.
8. Should you have any questions, please consult Rabbi Adelson.

Remembering the Holocaust

A Jew Today (1978)

For those of us who have lived the human and Jewish condition to its ultimate depths, there can be no doubt: at this point in history the Jewish people and the Jewish state are irrevocably linked; one could not survive the other. We have rarely been as united. And as alone.

And so the notion of a new collective catastrophe no longer seems preposterous. We already know that as far as we are concerned, the impossible is possible. When it comes to Jewish history, there is nothing unthinkable.

I say this reluctantly and for the first time. I have always placed the Holocaust on a mystical level, beyond human understanding. I have quarreled with friends for making certain easy analogies and comparisons in that domain. The concentration-camp phenomenon eludes the philosophers as much as it does the novelists, and it may not be dealt with lightly. I speak of it now, in connection with the present, only because Jewish destiny has once again become subject to discussion.

That is why I am afraid. Images from the past rise up and cloud current events. Blackmail in some quarters, abdication in others. Overt threats, hidden complicities. Friends who suddenly declare their neutrality. Neutrals whose hostility becomes apparent. The enemy who becomes ever more powerful and ever more attractive. If allowed to have his way — and he is — he will become the god of our cursed age, demanding — and obtaining — the future of a people as a sacrifice.

In Memory of Our Departed in the Past Year

*We record with profound sorrow
the passing of these beloved members of our synagogue family during the past year.*

May we all be charitable in deed and in thought in memory of those we love who no longer walk the earth.

*May we live unselfishly, in truth and in love and peace,
so they will be remembered as a blessing,
as we this day lovingly remember those whose lives
endure as a blessing.*
